DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

VOLUME III.

SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1907.

NUMBER 6

GOOD CITIZEN, LOYAL FRIEND, KIND BROTHER.

Was Mr. Lloyd Clarkson Whose Death Oc- curred Friday Night.

Mr. Lloyd Clarkson died at his home between Springfield and Lebanon last Friday night March 15, 1907, at 12 o'clock of Bright's disease, and in his death Washington county lost one of her worthiest citizens.

Mr. Clarkson had been a sufferer of this disease for a long time, but during the past few weeks grew worse and his death came as no surprise to those who knew his condition. About one year ago he was accidentally shot in the leg and it is thought that this hastened his death.

Mr. Clarkson was forty-six years old, having been born in this County November 29, 1861. He spent his entire life in the county, in which he had hundreds of friends. A number of years ago he was engaged in the undertaking and furniture business at Springfield, but during the past few years he had devoted his time to his farm. His friends and family remember his business career with gratification, for he was recognized by all with whom he did business as an absolutely honest man.

Indeed in the death of Mr. Clarkson the county sustains a loss. He was enterprising, and was ever ready to lend his assistance to the advancement of the interests of Washington county. He was honorable to a pretty degree. He was generous with friend and foe alike, and was always ready with an open purse to assist the needy. What more need be said of him? When the summons came, and his soul passed on to the Courts of God, those who knew him said: "An honest, noble, big-hearted man has gone away from us."

He was a devout member of the Catholic church, and funeral services were conducted at the church here Sunday morning by Rev. Father Henneey, after which interment occurred in the Catholic Cemetery.

The deceased leaves two brothers, Messrs Thomas Clarkson of this place, and Richard Clarkson, of Lebanon, and a half sister, Mrs. Ben Hayden, to mourn the loss of a kind and loving brother.

To these sorrowing ones The Sun, together with hundreds of friends, extends condolences.

Advice To Farmers.

Many farmers who made the mistake of staying out of tobacco pool are making another mistake by selling their crops at the low prices now offered. We are not running an advice bureau, but nearly every one believes that those who are selling now could get much higher prices by holding a few months, or better still by putting their present crop in the pool. There is only a small amount, less than 35 per cent. of the crop, outside of the pool and the owners of this tobacco are allowing the trust to buy it at the old prices, and are thereby furnishing ammunition with which the trust can fight the pool for a short time. Every farmer ought to enlist with the Burley Tobacco Society, but those who do not are making a mistake in allowing the trust to take the crops at trust prices. Within a few weeks farmers in the pool can have 6 to 8 cents advanced to them on their crops, and will have as much more coming to them when their crops are sold, while many outside the pool are selling outright for 5 to 8 cents and have nothing more coming to them. It ought not to be hard to decide which is the better proposition.—Cynthia Log Cabin.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

One of the most hotly contested things in the tournament is always the spelling match, and for this reason our school is making the best effort that it knows how to have worthy representatives in the field for that event. Consequently, there are many spelling matches now-a-days, and there will be several more before it can be decided who is the most worthy to bear our standard. Friday, two were held at the school building, one between the fifth and sixth grades and the other between the seventh and eighth year pupils. In both cases the older classes came off victorious, though it was by no means an inflexible defeat for the fifth and seventh graders. Next Friday, the losers in the two matches will spell against one another, and the winners will try their hands to see which is the best.

We are sorry to report that Richard Spalding has stopped school on account of ill health.

As Spring opens up our calls to school, or campus, as Leo calls it (he is going away to college next year and is getting into practice) is becoming alive again with baseball players, who are getting down to good hard work, determined to win the pennant at the tournament. Prospects seem good, too, for such an ending of their effort for it is a good set of players that gather every morning at recess on the ball diamond.

We beg to apologize for a mistake recorded by our pen a few weeks ago, when we spoke of the disbanding of the girls ball team. We desire to say that the mistake was an honest one and that the only reason it was made was that the editor of the column was told by the acknowledged leader of the team that they had agreed to stop. We were further deceived by the fact that practice was entirely suspended for fully a week. It appears that both sides in the practice games were very desirous of having a certain one of the young ladies on their side, and it was over this point that the club agreed to disagree. Practice has been resumed in its entirety, and it is not improbable that a challenge will be sent to the other schools in the tournament.

Speaking seriously of the tournament, about twelve of the schools have already accepted the invitation sent out by Prof. Colvin, several weeks ago. It is probable that several more will be added to the list before the time comes. Our school will enter in most of the contests, and all the teachers are selecting the pupils to represent them in the various classes. There are left just eight more weeks of school and then will be about two weeks in which to make preparations for this great event in our school life.

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained however by the fear of fevers and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters, who go there without this fear, well knowing they are safe from malarious influence with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison too, biliousness, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by Hayden & Robertson, druggists. See.

Washington County School Children

To a Fund to Give Kentucky Representation at Jamestown Exposition.—Pupils of Five Schools Respond.

In response to a request of the Kentucky Jamestown Exposition Commission, urging the school children of the State to participate in contributing to a fund to give Kentucky Representation at the Jamestown Exposition at Norfolk, Va., the pupils of five schools have responded.

The amount asked for is graded according to the ages of pupils as follows:

Under 5 years 1 cent each; 5 to 9 years 2 cents each; 10 to 14 years 3 cents each; 15 to 20 years 4 cents each; 21 years and over 5 cents each.

It is not desired that a pupil shall give more than the amount called for according to age, but he may help some other pupil to make a contribution, if he desires to do so. Teachers may contribute in any amount they care to.

The money contributed by the children and the teachers will be used exclusively in the erection of a replica of the Fort of Bonesboro on the Exposition ground.

All the names of those contributing will be recorded on a register provided for that purpose and will be on exhibition at the Kentucky building for the inspection of the public.

Resolutions Condemning Action of French Government.

Marion Falcon: Despite the inclement weather Sunday an outpouring of good citizens of all religious denominations from this and adjoining counties gathered in this city to offer a protest against the action of the French Government in confiscating the property of the Catholic church and placing government restrictions on all religious assemblies.

Judge H. W. Rives called the meeting to order and briefly stated the object for which it was called. He was then elected permanent chairman and Mr. C. C. Boldrick was elected secretary.

Hon. Edward J. McDermott, of Louisville, was then introduced and in a most eloquent address related in detail the deplorable conditions existing in France and the history of that country leading up to the present crisis. He was followed by Judge L. H. Thurman who presented his views on the subject in clear and unmistakable language. Rev. W. P. Hogarty also made a short address. Several patriotic songs were sung that added pleasure and enthusiasm to those present.

The following resolutions were offered and unanimously adopted:

Whereas: The people of the United States of America should at all times have an abiding interest in what concerns the liberty and honor of the people of France, because of the effective assistance rendered by her government and people to the American colonies in securing the triumph of civil and religious liberty founded upon the free exercise by the people of those inherent and inalienable rights, with which no human government can rightfully interfere; and

Whereas: The present French government, in the exercise of arbitrary and absolute power, has violated every principle of civil and religious liberty and the inalienable rights of millions of the French people, by confiscating thousands of schools, hospitals, asylums, and other institutions of charity, built by private subscriptions and donations of individuals; by driving into exile thousands of men and women, citizens of France, for no other offense than that they had devoted their lives to the work of educating the young, relieving the poor, the sick, the maimed and the unfortunate of all classes; by confiscating the churches and all funds that had been contributed by individuals and held in trust for charitable purposes or to maintain the dignity of Divine worship; by forbidding free offerings of the people to provide other places of worship, or to support their pastors, by prohibiting every act of public worship, except in such form, by such persons and at such time as the council of State, through law associations approved and controlled by it, might direct; by prohibiting the Christian education of youth in schools, or the training of the clergy in seminaries; and by openly declaring war upon Jesus Christ, and undertaking to drive Him and His teachings out of France; therefore,

Resolved: That we, citizens of Central Kentucky, believing in the Gospel of Jesus Christ, and in the inalienable rights of men that are essential to true liberty, and are recognized only in a civilization based upon Christian ideals, do now unite in earnest protest against, and denunciation of this outrage upon civil liberty and oppression of the Christian people of France, this attack upon religion itself, and openly declared war by atheism against Christianity.

Resolved: That we extend to His Holiness, Pope Pius X, and to the Catholic hierarchy and people of France, our sympathy in this their time of trial, and congratulate them upon the firm, patient and persistent heroism with which they are fighting the battle of Christendom against the attack of atheism and infidelity, as, on another occasion, the forces enrolled under the banner of the Catholic Church repelled the invading Saracen hosts, and saved from destruction all of the Christian world and Christian civilization. We pray, and we believe, that the Prince of Peace will accord to them an equal measure of success, and that the gates of Hell prevail.

Resolved: That copies of these resolutions be sent to His Holiness, Pope Pius X, to the Cardinal Archbishop of Paris, and to the President of France.

This dastardly departure of the French Government ought to be condemned by all people, it matters not to what religious belief they hold. No Government has a right to dictate to man how he shall worship his God, and when a government undertakes to do a thing of that nature it becomes tyrannical in the extreme. Mass meetings like the one held in Lebanon should be held in all localities where people favor right over might. Why not one for Springfield?

Marion County.

Marion Falcon: Mrs. Jennie Cissell, wife of Dr. L. K. Cissell of Loretto, died at her home Wednesday night of inflammation of the stomach. The funeral will take place at Chicago this morning, after which the remains will be laid to rest in the cemetery there. Mrs. Cissell was a daughter of Mr. Robert Bowling, of New Haven, and was a most lovable lady—gentle and dutiful in her home—and a kind and sympathetic neighbor. She leaves a family of several small children.

Mr. Nally, of Washington county, is spending this week assisting in organizing the farmers of this county into local unions of the American Society of Equity. A splendid union was organized at Bradfordville and others are in progress. Judging from the interest being manifested by the farmers they will be thoroughly organized here in a short time.

Rockefeller's Princely Gift.

New York, March 18.—The Herald to-day says that, according to a member of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s Bible class, who is also a personal friend of John D. Rockefeller, and in a position to know of his affairs, the latter proposes to make a princely gift to New York City. It will amount to at least $200,000. It will be partly charitable and partly educational.

The Herald adds: "This man said that when Mr. Rockefeller was conferring with his son at Lakewood, N. J., a fortnight ago, the meeting was for the purpose of discussing the subject of the gift, but was on the subject of Mr. Rockefeller's will, which document the old king was then completing with the aid of his son and his lawyers."

"It was said that this document will astonish the world when it is made public. It will be it is declared, donate no less than $250,000 for charitable and educational purposes, and it will be so bestowed that the benefit therefrom will almost be perpetual."

Disastrous Fire.

Lebanon was visited by a disastrous fire last Friday night, and $40,000 worth of property was destroyed. The fire broke out in the tailoring establishment of Hilps & Abell, and had gained considerable headway when discovered by the fire department. A. Kelly & Co., grocers; D. R. Bodkins & Co., grocers; Pelosi & Co., confectionary and restaurant; C. B. Johnston, wholesale and retail hardware; G. R. Latimer, dry goods and notions; J. W. Miller, photographer and art goods; Dr. G. Thornton, physician; Hilps & Abell, tailors; Dr. T. C. Cleaver, physician, and Dr. J. T. Elliott, dentist.

A Humane Appeal.

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind., Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me and fully comes up to the propriety of recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cures the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, whooping cough, croup, quinsy hoarseness, and pharyngitis. It saves the world over. Cures and builds them up. Guaranteed at Hayden & Robertson's drug store, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

M. H. JONES & CO.

Poultry Business of M.

H. Jones Has Been

Incorporated

Mr. M. H. Jones has incorporated his poultry business at this place. The incorporators are: L. G. Smith and S. S. Kirk, of Shelbyville, Fred Clark of Bardonia, and M. H. Jones. This will be one of the largest poultry houses in this section of Kentucky, and it is predicted that an immense business will be done. Mr. Jones is the President of the company. This alone guarantees that there will be much activity in the business. There are few men who can "round up" poultry. He hustles all day, and if necessary, will go out into the night and handle some more. The Sun predicts that the poultry business of M. H. Jones & Co. will be the biggest thing in Washington county in a few years.

TOBACCO

Over 700,000 pounds of tobacco have been received in the different warehouses and all tobacco registered to date has been brought in. Owing to the fact that the time for receiving in summer order is so near and work on the new warehouse is to be begun at once, no more tobacco is expected to be received now, but within sixty days tobacco will be received in summer order. This will be a great saving to the people as it costs almost as much to take care of the crop for the next few weeks as to care for that brought in early in the season.

About 90 per cent. of the 1907 crop has been pooled in this county. Pull for the pool of the other 10 per cent.

Some people are good at discouraging talks, but if you take notice you will find that they are usually found among that class who accomplish little in life. There is a broad difference between "discouragement" and "advice." The advice of a friend ought to be given consideration, but the fellow who "pours cold water" upon your "aspirations" is not a friend, nor is his "advice" of value.

Conrad Hertlein At Home.

Mr. Conrad Hertlein, after a two-months sojourn in Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Germany, has returned home. He was accompanied home by his sisters, Misses Sophia and Wilhelmina Hertlein, and brother, Adolph Hertlein, also a friend, M. Tullis, at whom will make their home in America. Mr. Hertlein went to Germany to settle up the estate of his mother.

He is glad to again be in Springfield, and his friends are glad to have him here again. Everybody wanted to shake hands with Conrad last evening. They were truly glad to see him.

THE SPARROW AND THE OWL.

THE SPARROW.

I often hear people advising folks to "think twice before they speak." That advice is very good when given to people who have the ability to think. But in view of the fact that there are a great many people in this old world who are possessed not of "thinks," but of "sayings," it is not surprising that they are so often advised to "think twice" before they speak.

It's better to smile than to frown, but a frown comes in mighty handy when you are pinched.

Unhappiness is contagious. If one of the family becomes afflicted, the whole family soon contracts the "disease."

When a fellow is "busted" there are very few people who are willing to boost him.

Money makes the mare go any where on earth, and over all sorts of roads, but it won't make her gallop into heaven.

One of the prettiest girls I ever saw was in the Valley Hill neighborhood.

I heard two women quarreling a few days ago, and for a few minutes it looked like there was going to be some "clawing and scratching." A dispute arose between these women over which one had the best looking husband. One woman contended that her husband was the handsomest because he was large and muscular, and the other woman said he reminded her of a baby elephant, whereupon the first woman retorted: "Well, that's all right a baby elephant is more than looking than a little monkey, even if the monkey is more or less 'shaped' like a man." About this time another woman came up and mentioned the Thaw case, and thus the dispute was settled.

People talk too much; they ought to whistle more. It is impossible to talk when you whistle, therefore whistling ought to be cultivated. It is better to whistle behind a man's back than it is to talk behind his back.

Don't believe every fellow is your friend who pats you on the back. It's mighty easy to pat.

While in Mackville last Saturday afternoon I heard a boy say to a young lady: "Well, suppose your father will not give his consent, then what will you do?" "Why," said the girl, "we will wait until you get rich and great, and then I know papa won't refuse."

Day and night
Suckers bite.

Mr. James Durrett is thoroughly convinced that advertising pays. He recently advertised through a farm paper that he had Indian — duck eggs for sale, and he is now trying to "figure out" how he can supply the demand from a "supply" that is very short. Mr. Durrett's ducks are laying regularly, and are doing their best to off-set the demand, but each mail brings a bunch of orders, and it is said the ducks are about to "fly the coop" and give up the job. The pressure is so strong, and if something is not done to relieve the situation it is feared that the nervous constitutions of both

Mr. Durrett and his ducks will be broken down. Mr. Durrett has employed a stenographer and is writing letters to various sections of the United States explaining to his customers that the situation is becoming grave and is positively asking that they wait until next year.

At Willaburg a few days ago I heard a woman tell her husband that if he didn't do better at keeping the weeds out of the garden this year than last, that she would see an attorney about a divorce.

The best thing to do when you feel that you have been "done" is to skidoo from the "door."

Dear Girls:—Now that the season for spring hats is at hand let me beg of you not to wear feathers upon your hats. It is wrong. Wear rears, and vines, and silks, and satins, but don't wear feathers. When you place the wing of a bird upon your spring bonnet, you place there an emblem of death.

It is easier for some people to stand the toothache than it is for them to stand poverty.

Whenever you hear a fellow slander his neighbor, set it down that he needs a tonic. His soul is full of poison.

When a man starts belittling it's mighty hard to head him off; he goes a mile a minute and hooks at everything in his path.

Mr. Charlie Noe predicts that we will have an epidemic of potato bugs and grasshoppers the coming summer.

A good woman is sweeter than the first rose of summer.

I know some women who are so bitterly opposed to "trusts" that they won't "trust" their husbands.

Deceit is a terrible thing. That's the only objection I have to a cross-eyed man, you think he's looking at something else when he's "eying" you. I once knew a cross-eyed man who always said, when he addressed a person: "Look out, brother, I'm looking at you!" He did this because he did not want to deceive anybody. They elected him to the legislature down in Arkansas and he made his mark in the world.

Talking about making marks in the world. There are some bright boys in Prof. Colvin's school who are as certain "to be heard from" as the morning sun is to rise. Some of these are Will Waters, Leo Simms, Lyman and Ollie Barker, Knight Handy, Harry Shultz and quite a number of others.

THE OWL.

Mr. Ben Hardin says there ought to be a law against the killing of "screech" owls. I think there ought to be a law against the killing of any kind of an owl. Mr. Hardin's reason for wanting "screechy" protected is that he destroys the sparrows. He tells me that this species of owl goes to the nest of English Sparrows and eats the young ones. That's pretty rough on the sparrow, and it seems that it ought not to be permitted. I never saw a sparrow, because I have always labored under the idea that they were poisonous.

Whenever I see a fellow carrying a lantern on a very dark night I know he is not going to do anything mean. People who are out for meanness don't want "light on the subject." An honest man is not afraid of the light; he wants it to shine upon him and his deeds, but a thief is afraid to have it turned upon him, and crouches in the shadows.

Out in the Jenawent neighborhood one night last week I saw a boy and girl going home from church. They were singing—singing "Nearer My God to Thee." A million stars were shining down upon them; the night winds were playing softly through the leafless trees and an old night bird, in a valley where a rivulet trickled along, whistled a tune. All of this was an inspiration to me, and I thought how much better it is for young folks to sing songs as they went their way along from the little meeting house, than it is for them to make goo-goo eyes at one another, and talk a lot of silly stuff that they think is love.

Some of the best men I have ever seen live in Washington county. While out at Brush Grove last Saturday night I saw a fellow get up at midnight, go to the barn and feed an old horse that he had neglected to feed at supper.

It is very wrong to scare children at night. A child ought to be taught that there is nothing frightful about the nighttime—that it is nothing more than a great black cloak around the day.

The best way to keep out of trouble is to let the other fellow attend to his own business and you attend to yours.

Down at Mooresville last Thursday night Deputy Sheriff Herbert Eddickman got up in his sleep and "drove" a lot of hogs out of a corn field. It was all imaginary on his part. I never saw a man work as hard in my life. He threw stones at the "hogs," head 'em off, and set the dogs upon 'em. You can imagine his surprise when he awoke and found himself in the middle of a big field. Of course there were no hogs in the field, and no corn for them to destroy had they been there. He considers his condition serious, and came to town yesterday to consult a doctor.

Care of Men's Clothes.

Caring for men's clothes is something almost every woman has to do some time in her life, for not always is the expense of a tailor's services possible, and to many it is a difficult task simply because they do not understand just how to press trousers that bag at the knees, how to remove the sheen from coats that have perhaps gotten out of usefulness or how to eradicate spots that destroy the appearance of an otherwise neat looking suit.

"Pressing trousers is really exceedingly simple," declares a woman whose husband's clothes always look as if they were cared for by an expert tailor. "If they are pressed after every second or third wearing, the knicks will not only never bag, but the creases at the front and back will always look fresh."

"The actual pressing is very easy. The seams at the sides of the trousers should be carefully matched before the trousers are laid on the ironing board. This done, a damp cloth should be hot over the material and a hot iron used to press out the lines. The steam caused by the wet cloth always beats from the iron shrinks the stretched portions into shape, removing the bagginess. After this is done hang them to dry thoroughly before being worn."

"Grease spots should, of course, be removed with gasoline, naphtha or some cleaning fluid and the material well brushed and aired before being pressed or the dirt will be trod into the cloth and the entire labor lost."

"Coats and vests need pressing about once a week if worn frequently, but I should never suggest doing this at home, for to properly iron shoulders, backs and fronts of these garments boards regularly shaped, such as tailors have, are necessary, and without them the work is bound to look botched."

"So it is much better to send them to a tailor, for all torn places in either coats or trousers can often be mended so that they will not show, while if attempted at home by one who is not familiar with such work the suit will be practically ruined."

"When shirts, coats and vests should always be placed on hangers to keep the shoulders in shape and the neck of the former from sagging, as it is bound to do if hung from a tape at the top. Trousers, too, should be placed on hangers, with the bottoms up, to keep the legs straight in shape and to preserve the creases in them."

"Taking the shine from clothes is not difficult to accomplish if a damp cloth is placed over a very hot iron and the latter held close to the material, though not placed directly upon it, or a sponge, with diluted ammonia and water and a careful rubbing afterward will often have the desired effect on clothes that have become worn and shiny from use."

"At least once a week all suits should be hung in the sun inside out if they are of a color that is likely to fade and the dust pounded out of them with a light rain brush."

How to Apply Wax Polishes.

Wax polishes specially prepared for calfskin shoes should be put on with a brush and then rubbed briskly with a hair or felt brush and, to get a finished luster, with a soft cotton cloth, says the Washington Post. Be sure to brush out the dust before putting calf shoes away, for they are usually so oily that gritty dirt works into the pores of the leather and in time cracks it. When buying polishes ask for one to be used on calfskin, for those prepared for velvet, box or Russia leathers will not do the calf just as the blacking made specially for calfskin will split any of these three leathers if constantly used. The dull or gun metal shining leather should not be shined. Instead, a paste made of glycerin, lampblack and turpentine must be worked into the leather so it will retain the oily appearance so much admired now.

A HAT SAVED HIM

Awful Experience of a Man Who Was Thrown Into a Casting Pit.

Erwin Nelson in the Chicago Tri once had a thrilling story of narrow escape from an awful death at the hands of striking Slav workmen in a Pennsylvania steel plant. Mr. Nelson was consigned to a traveling capacity with the company which operated the steel plant and had arrived at the forge on a tour of inspection during a strike of the Slav and Hungarian steel workers.

"On the evening of the second day of my visit," he says, "I had occasion to traverse that part of the forge shops proper in which was located what technically is known as the 'casting pit.' One of the processes employed by this company consisted of pouring the white hot metal from huge ladles into a gigantic mold directly underneath. The mold thereupon was moved beneath a hydraulic press and subjected to enormous pressure until thoroughly solidified."

"I was standing directly opposite this mold when I suddenly was seized by two powerful arms and promptly gagged. This seizure it afterward transpired was caused by my strong resen-

"I CLAMORED THE ROPE UPON THE HOOK." blance to the general superintendent of the works, against whom the Slavs felt particularly bitter. In less than time it took to tell it I was effectively gagged, bound hand and foot and carefully lowered into the mold.

"Now I came to rest at 9 o'clock on the following morning there would be cast in this mold a large ingot, out of which subsequently a coast defense gun of exceptionally large caliber was to be forged. In a flash the hideous design of my assailants came over me."

"When my feet touched the bottom of the mold I was staggered. Then I awoke keenly to the danger of my position and strove to devise some means of saving myself. Efforts to break my self from my bonds proved unavailing."

"After hours of useless exertion I must have sunk into a semistupor of exhaustion, for I remembered nothing until I came to and saw far above me the first streaks of grayish daylight filter through the soot covered windows in the roof. Then I believed that my hours were numbered."

"It is said that in moments of extreme peril the human mind operates with extreme rapidity. During the space of my incarceration my entire life flashed before me, as it is said to do in the case of drowning men. Then my mind commenced to wander, and the effort of righting himself I lost myself speculating as to how it 'would feel' to have the mass of molten steel stream down upon me. Then another space of unconsciousness."

"A shrill whistle far overhead aroused me. It was 7.30 a. m.—only ninety minutes more of life! I heard men move about, the creaking and grating of huge machinery broke the silence, lathes commenced to swing, shop locomotives rumbled by all around and above me was life, pulsating, energetic life—and within a few feet of it was I, doomed to a fate worse than death."

"The special whistle signal, always used on such occasions, sounded, to indicate that the casting was about to be done. And resigned myself to my fate and offered up a fervent prayer. Suddenly a soft object struck my head. It was a silk hat. I learned afterward that one of the visitors who were present at the opening of the pit to witness the casting of the huge ingot had stepped too close to the mold, slipped and in the effort of righting himself lost his hat, which providentially fell into the mold and upon me."

"Several of the helpers, scenting a hot tip, then I felt that efforts were being made to recover the headgear. They fetched a long pole, affixed a stout hook to its end and lowered it into the blackness of the mold. By a supreme effort I managed to raise my bound hands as the hook came near me and clasped the rope binding my hands upon the hook. Then I felt that efforts were made at the top to withdraw the pole, but the same remained stationary. I knew then that I was saved."

Cough Remedy

The Children's Favorite
Coughs, Croup and Whooping Cough.

This remedy is famous for the cures over a large part of the advertising pays. He recently advertised through a farm paper that he had Indian — duck eggs for sale, and he is now trying to "figure out" how he can supply the demand from a "supply" that is very short. Mr. Durrett's ducks are laying regularly, and are doing their best to off-set the demand, but each mail brings a bunch of orders, and it is said the ducks are about to "fly the coop" and give up the job. The pressure is so strong, and if something is not done to relieve the situation it is feared that the nervous constitutions of both

I Have For Sale a few Black Minorca Roosters.

What Is First in Kentucky.

Louisville Herald: The Mayville Ledger enumerates in order the leading products of Kentucky. First is Kentucky's noble womanhood. Second, her brainy and brave sons. Third, that unique, picturesque and celebrated the world over spectacle of peculiar manhood, the Kentucky Colonel. Fourth, is tobacco, the golden lotus leaf, that cheers the world. Fifth in rank is the amber nectar of the gods, that makes the Colonels wear "the smile that won't come off."

Well and wisely does the Ledger add that these five products are a few only of the good things that Kentucky may claim. Her treasures are unlimited. She raises corn the finest that American sun shines upon, wheat that gives bread such as the Olympian gods never dreamt of. Think of her fruits, her poultry and her garden "saws." The squirrel breakfasts and the "old ham" reflections of a generous Kentucky hospitality, are known from pole to pole.

We have iron and silver, precious stones and priceless clays. Woods of the rarest kinds are ours. The mountains of Kentucky kiss the rose lips of Aurora, cool their brows with the dew of Iris and close sleepful eyelids in the bosom of Nox. The rivers of Kentucky move with unsurpassed dignity and indescribable rhythm; her rills, her springs and her brooks sparkle with an effulgence borrowed from the skies.

What a sky the Lord has spread out to hover the grand old Commonwealth! By days a sheet of opalescent splendor, and by night a robe of imperial purple spangled with golden stars. Kentucky is a land select, beautiful and inspiring. So impressed with that favored section of the State was Capt. Inlay, an officer in the Revolutionary army, who visited Mayville in 1793, that he wrote:

"Everything here assumes a dignity and splendor I have never seen in any other part of the world. You ascend a considerable distance from the shore of the Ohio, and when you would suppose you had arrived at the summit of a mountain you find yourself upon an extensive level. Here an eternal verdure reigns, and the brilliant sun of latitude 39, piercing through the azure heavens, produces in that prolific soil an early maturity which is truly astonishing."

Beautiful one hundred years ago, Kentucky has since taken on charms innumerable.

A Hint to Travelers.

While in Suffolk, Va., Henry Croll, Jr., proprietor of the Beaverton, Mich. Hardware Co., was taken very sick with bowel trouble. A traveling salesman from Saginaw, Mich., advised him to get a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which he did. "It soon cured me, and I take pleasure in recommending it," he says. "No one should leave home on a journey without a bottle of this remedy. It is almost sure to be needed and is not obtainable while on steamships or cars. Sold by every reliable dealer in the Blue Grass."

They Understood.

It was a school director in Binghamton who visited the school and tried to get the pupils to stand in line by saying: "Now all you children what's bigger than the other children get behind the children that's littler than the rest." But, strange to say, he obtained the desired result.

Big Barbecue.

I promised your Mr. Neal that I would write him about our proposed Barbecue and Hurgoo to be given by the Burley Tobacco Branch of the American Society of Equity in the near future. The exact date is not decided upon yet, but will probably be April 24th or 25th, at the Woodland Park, in Lexington, Ky.

I think I am warranted in saying this will be the biggest event of the kind ever held in the United States. Every man, woman and child in the forty counties of the Burley Tobacco District of Kentucky—Indiana, Ohio and West Virginia, who are interested in the success of the movement for equitable prices for farm products are invited to come. Voluntary contributions will be received, and may be pledged now to the Secretary of the Barbecue Club, A. M. Harrison.

Epilepsy Fits St. Vitus Dance

Are nerve diseases, and unless checked, lead to destruction of both mind and body. The weak, shattered nerves must have something to strengthen and build them back to health. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve is a remarkable nerve tonic and stimulant. It strengthens the nerves, relieves the nervous strain, and influences refreshing body-building sleep and rest. Persistent use seldom fails to relieve these afflictions.

"I was taken with epileptic fits; had eleven in less than 12 hours. My father sent for our family physician, but he could do very little for me, and I grew worse every day, and at last still got worse. My father heard of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve and a box of Nerve and Liver Pills. I had taken only a few doses until I began to feel better. I took 13 bottles, and I am cured, and sound and well. It has been worth all the money I paid for it. I am enjoying my life and health is due to this wonderful medicine." R. F. D. No. 2, Boston, Ga.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. Write to Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

BOOTLESS CHASE.

Also Costless and Pantless, "Pa" Pur-see Elopers in Vain.

The daring leap of an angry father from a second story window, his chase after his eloping daughter for several blocks clad only in his nightshirt and the escape of the eloping couple were features of a story told at police headquarters in Scranton, Pa., by the father, Paul Daniels.

He has a nineteen-year-old daughter, Stella. A few weeks ago Frank Gutofsky began to board with the Daniels family. He and the girl soon became close friends, and her parents did not bother them until they learned that

The Face on the Cent.

Get your pennies and hunt for any Indian physiognomy there.

It is the head of a gracious American woman who for some years was held in admiration both for her beauty and her goodness, and who only a few weeks ago, passed on to her great reward. Her name was Sarah Longacre Keen. She lived in Philadelphia. For thirty-five years she was the secretary of the Philadelphia branch of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

When Sarah was a child of 5 or 6 years of age, a delegation of Indians from the Northwest visited in Washington. They came to see the sights and pay their respects to the Big Chief of the Nation.

After having spent considerable time at the capital, the Indians were taken to Philadelphia. Here they were shown the mint. The little girl's father was a fine engraver, and he had official connection with this great money factory. He was a kindly, benevolent man, as well, and he invited this delegation of red men to some sort of entertainment at his home.

One of the chiefs had his attention attracted to the little miss and in a mood of sportiveness he took off his headress and put it on her head. She was not frightened, but lending herself to the enjoyment of the joke, she stood for a moment and let the company look at her. Some one present who had both an eye for beauty and artistic skill, was so struck by the appearance which little Sarah Longacre made in her Indian headress that he sketched her on the spot. The sketch was engraved by her father.

Just then the penny in its present form was about to be issued, but the figure with which its face was to be ornamented had not been chosen. This engraved sketch went into competition for the honor. It was accepted in preference to all others, and the imprint of it was transferred to the next little pennies which Uncle Sam for so many years has been sending out into the world.—Washington Post.

Do Not Neglect a Bud Cold.

Never allow a cold to take its course. Too often at this season of the year its course is toward pneumonia. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy will promptly cure your cough and counteract any tendency in this direction. There is nothing better for acute throat and lung troubles. For sale by every reliable dealer in the Blue Grass.

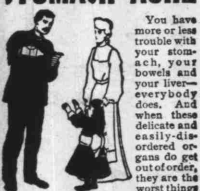

PA LEAFED FROM A SECOND STORY WINDOW. Gutofsky had left a family in the old country. They told the girl to forget him.

On a recent morning as Daniels was about to dress he saw his daughter and Gutofsky leaving the house. He called to his daughter. They hastened their steps. Then Daniels, without stopping to continue his toilet, leaped from his bedroom window into a snow bank and pursued the pair, yelling at the top of his lungs, until they had eluded him by dashing into a side street and around a projecting corner. Then a policeman, attracted by Daniels' cries, arrived on the scene and arrested the nightshirted parent for disturbing the peace.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator from the 15th Senatorial district, composed of the counties of Washington, Marion and Taylor.

For several years these counties have been alternating between candidates, and it is now Washington county's time to furnish the nominee.

There were but two candidates for the honor--Mr. C. F. Bosley and the writer. We thought it unwise to settle the matter between us by a primary, and agreed to leave the settlement to the Democratic Committee of Washington county. Ballots were sent to ten committeemen and were received and opened last Saturday, the result being six to four in favor of the undersigned. In the county there are twelve precincts. Mr. A. C. Kimball, committeeman for district No. 8, refused to vote, and in the Hendren district the party has no committeeman, hence, as stated above, but ten committeemen participated.

To those committeemen who voted for me I am most grateful; to those who voted against me I desire to say that I hold not the least ill will. I consider them my friends--every one of them. They voted for a good man--a gentleman of high order, and a Democrat whose loyalty was never doubted. I am an admirer of Fleece Bosley, and had I been looking for a man to vote for, I do not believe I could have found one to whom I would have given more conscientiously or gladly given my support. I have found him clean and upright--honest to a prett degree, and honorable in all things.

It is my intention to thoroughly canvass the district during the next few months.

Yours truly,

ROGERS GORE.

CARDWELL.

Miss Ora Perkins, of Battle, is spending a week with her uncle, E. T. Perkins, at this place.

E. G. Holiday was confined to his bed the first of the week, but is better at this writing.

The sale of Mrs. Sallie Ann Pinkston was well attended and things sold well. Died, Sunday last, near Battle, Mrs. J. W. Darling of lung trouble. Deceased was about twenty years old. She leaves a husband and a child about one year old, father, mother, one sister and two brothers to mourn their loss. Interment in Mackville the following day.

Dogs got into W. H. Littrel's sheep last week, but fortunately only killed one ewe and left two lambs. Esquire Campbell was telephoned and arrived next day and assessed the damage at $10.

A Big Class Adoption of Modern Woodmen of America was held at Camp 12309 in Cornishville Friday night. A large crowd of neighbors were present from different camps. Duncan Camp put the work on with much credit. Eighteen new members were added to this Camp and were treated to a big coffee sack full of large, red apples. Two boxes of cigars were the refreshments for the visiting members from Duncan Kirkwood. A large crowd from Harrodsburg was also present. Cornishville Camp will build a hall 40x43 feet in the next ninety days.

We would like to correct the mistake of last week where the following young people left for Illinois. It should have been the following young people were married and left immediately for Illinois: Chester Noel to Ada Sims, James Carey to Maudie Hillard and Haden Coker to Carrie Cannon.

Graham & Perkins bought a horse and cow from Mary Warner.

A. L. Graham bought a horse from J. T. Mobley for $85; sold a mare to E. G. Holiday for $85, and bought three heifers from E. G. Holiday at $25 each.

T. W. Word bought a horse from J. Burrus for $75.

W. L. Graham sold a horse to Louis Sallee for $125 and bought a mare from Sam Hood for $140.

Graham & Perkins bought of J. A. Kyler a horse for $110.

Ben Hendren bought of J. I. Moore one mare for $150.

E. T. Perkins bought of S. H. Gardner one cow and calf for $35.

T. H. Royalty bought a cow from J. Burrus for $40, also a sow and seven pigs for $37.50.

Graham & Perkins have for sale three nice saddle and harness geldings, extra nice walking horses; also some good work horses and brood mares. See them before you buy next Monday.

The land sale of Enoch and Albert Masters on last Friday was well attended. The farm, of 25 acres, brought $31.15 per acre, J. A. Kyler being the purchaser.

Violated His Oath.

Glasgow, Ky., March 15.--Mr. Crickett Carver, a well-known farmer of Austin, this county, died of pneumonia aged fifty years. Mr. Carver lost a family of three or four children some two years ago, the little ones dying in a few days of each other. It is said Mr. Carver believed that the Lord had taken his children because he had been running a distillery in connection with his farm and sold his outfit and swore to never make the "cursed stuff" again; however, he was here this week and bought a boiler and engine with which to operate a distillery, and on account of the death of his children, his oath and his sudden taken off, the people of that section look at it as a distinct case of divine interference.

FROM ALL OVER THE STATE

CONSTRUCTION

Of the Pine Mountain Railroad Is Abandoned By the L. & N.

Barbourville, Ky.—The adverse railroad legislation being enacted through out the country has, it is believed, caused the Louisville & Nashville railway system to abandon the construction of the Pine Mountain railroad, a 35-mile extension, which has been in course of construction through Walcott, Knox and Bell counties for a year past. Orders have been issued calling off the men engaged in construction work, and the gasoline boat line which operates between this city and the points where construction work is under way has been suspended. Already the L. & N. has been to great expense in beginning the line, several miles having been completed.

FOUND STRANGLER

By His Hatter, But Owner Denies That Horse Committed Suicide.

Lexington, Ky.—Dangling at the end of a rope, haltered and strangled to death, was the horse belonging to Earl May, of Leesburg, Scott county, when May went to the stable to hitch him to his hucker wagon. During the night May was awakened by the horse's violent kicking against the sides of the stalls, and, reaching out, he was suddenly stopped by the noise May let the incident pass for his mind. When the horse was stabled he was tired and worn, but he was well fed. May's neighbors profess to think the horse committed suicide. May discredits the theory.

UNDER THE NOSES

ECCENTRIC WOMAN

Left $40,000 To a Friend Whom She Admired.

Lexington, Ky.—The will of the late Susan T. Allen, bequeathing $40,000 to W. J. Loughbridge, of this city, was probated. Loughbridge is no relation to Mrs. Allen and the money was left to him in consideration, says Mrs. Allen, "of his kindness to me and on account of the admiration I have for him. The interest I feel in him and because I believe that he will at least be grateful for any favor I make to him." Mrs. Allen was widely known on account of her eccentricities. She spent a fortune riding on the street cars. It is estimated that she rode 50,000 miles in the last 15 years of her life.

From a Carriage

Lexington, Ky.—When attempting to cross a swollen creek on the Lysle pike near this city, S. E. Drake, of the firm of Drake & Marshall, and Roger Nichols, of the Kentucky Stock Farm, were washed from their carriage, but were rescued by Steven Williams with a pole and rope. The horse was drowned.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Helped To Win the Day For Temperance at Richmond, Ky.

Richmond, Ky.—The citizens by 148 majority said that the 12 saloons in Richmond must go. The whiskey men carried only one precinct out of four. The feature of the day was a procession in which 1,500 school children took part, each child carrying a long banner, on which was inscribed "Vote For Me." They marched to all of the voting booths, where "At the Cross and America" were sung. The women played a most important part. The weather was very rainy and the mud was deep, but this did not deter them. They donned gum boots and raincoats and waded right in.

VICTORIES GAINED

By Temperance Element in Kentucky Encourages Christian Endeavors.

Lexington, Ky.—Reports of committees and addresses took up the greater part of the day at the state convention of the Christian Endeavors. There was much enthusiasm over the victories gained in Kentucky by the temperance element in politics. The following officers were elected: Chas. F. Evans, of Lexington, president; Shelby Shanklin, of Georgetown, vice president; Miss Margaret Owen, of Lexington, secretary; Miss Mary Elly, of Frankfort, treasurer. The place for holding the next convention was left to the executive committee.

PROSECUTION WILL CLOSE CASE

WITH INTRODUCTION IN EVIDENCE OF CARBON COPY

Of Affidavit That Hummel Testified Was Made Voluntarily to Him By Evelyn Nesbit Thaw.

New York, March 18.—Harry K. Thaw will probably know his fate at hands of the 12 men selected to sit in judgment upon him at the killing of Stanford White, by Saturday night. Both the prosecution and defense agreed that the admission of evidence would likely cease some time Wednesday, leaving a day apiece for the arguments of District Attorney Jerome and Mr. Delmas. It is anticipated that Justice Fitzgerald will deliver his charge to the jury not later than Saturday morning. The length of the jury's deliberations will determine whether the case will be spent in suspense by the prisoner. Unless a change of plan is made the prosecution will close its case shortly after court convenes, with the introduction in evidence of the carbon copy of the affidavit that Lawyer Abe Hummel testified was made voluntarily to him by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. The defense has declined not to cross-examine the state's experts.

"It depends entirely upon Jerome's cross-examination of our expert witnesses as to when the trial will draw to a close," said Mr. Delmas. "If he treats them in the same manner as we treated his experts we shall reach the end speedily."

Mr. Jerome's answer to this statement makes his case appear clear. He said: "I am hoping and preparing to spend the week-end somewhere in the country," as though to imply that the prolonging of trial were not in his hands.

Should District Attorney Jerome rest his case it will be because of inability to spring the surprise he had planned. The surprise, it was asserted, was the testimony of William Strick, who was a friend of Evelyn Nesbit before she met Thaw or White, and who continued to be a bosom friend of Thaw and his wife after their marriage and up to the time of the killing of the architect.

SMUGGLING, THE CHARGE

But Are Suspected of Stealing $35,000 Worth of Jewelry.

New York, March 18.—Arthur Preston Green and Charles Rohrer, passengers on the steamer America, were arrested when the vessel arrived from Hamburg, charged with attempted smuggling. Diamonds and jewelry to the value of $35,000, which the customs officials alleged the prisoners had failed to declare, were taken from them. The valuable were confiscated and sent to the customhouse.

Though only the charge of smuggling was preferred against the prisoners here, it is stated by the police that the value of the stolen goods in connection with a theft of some $35,000 worth of jewelry and precious stones, and the London authorities have been notified.

SPAN OF VIADUCT FALLS

Two Sections In the Center of Bridge Collapsed.

Cincinnati, March 18.—Two sections in the center of the Eighth street viaduct collapsed today. The viaduct, Girder, superstructure, stanchions and the general construction of the bridge dropped completely out of sight into the swollen, muddy waters of the Mill Creek below. As a result of the collapse one of the largest manufacturing sections of the city is cut off from the western districts. The viaduct, Hill, Sedamsville and other outlying western districts is shut off. Telephone and telegraph service to that part of the city is paralyzed and the water service to the western hill-tops placed in jeopardy.

The railroads that have been forced to use the Ellettsburg depot are also seriously handicapped.

LINER STRIKES ON ROCKS

400 Passengers Are Aboard—Steamer Goes Ashore in a Thick Fog.

London, March 18.—The White Star liner steamer Suez struck on the rocks near The Lizard in a thick fog. Two life boats have been launched and others have been summoned to the assistance of the vessel. No loss of life is anticipated.

The Suez is ashore on what is known as Maestere Rock under light of house. On board the vessel 400 passengers and 160 members of the crew. The Suez, which is commanded by Capt. Selby, is of 12,500 tons and plies between London and Australia by way of Cape Town.

Rioting Peasants Cause Distress

Bucharest, March 18.—The peasants are continuing exercises in several districts of Moldavia. The people of that district are in great distress and have telegraphed King Charles and the premier, imploring their protection.

Fatal Maneuvers

Alacero, France, March 18.—During the maneuvers without limits the torpedo boat destroyer Epee rammed Torpedo Boat No. 263. A steam pipe on the latter burst, killing two men and mortally injuring one. The Epee towed the torpedo boat ashore.

Powerful Revolt In Venezuela

HIS HAIR TURNS PINK.

Cure For Sprains Curiously Transforms a Farmer.

Cyrus Turner, a middle aged farmer, living midway between Intervale and Jackson, N. H., has been so cured by the summer heater business, albeit the neighbors say the misfortune that befell him as due to his own carelessness. But Uncle Cyrus, as he is called, shifts the blame from his own shoulders and "cusses" city folk up hill and down.

Until a short time ago Uncle Cyrus possessed a head of luxuriant black hair that was the envy of the village. It was long, silky and thick, and the owner was so proud of it that for fourteen years he refused to visit a barber; hence it reached to his shoulders. Now all this is changed. Instead of locks of raven blue Uncle Cyrus runs his fingers over a pink stubble with black roots and "cusses" softly as he tells the neighbors how it happened.

Among the city folk who put up at the Towner farm last summer were Mr. and Mrs. Tate of Boston. They were very congenial and prosperous, and Mrs. Tate particularly possessed wondrous hair. This hair, Mrs. Tate said, was grown by a remarkable invigorator compounded by a Boston chemist. It had done wonders for her, and she believed it would almost bring out fuzz on a billiard ball. It was singularly resistant in preventing the hair from falling, and she suggested that a little applied to Uncle Cyrus' scalp would prove beneficial.

Once or twice the farmer rubbed in a little, and his head felt so good thereafter that when Mrs. Tate left for home he begged a few ounces of the fluid. This he placed in a plain bottle on the cork of which he wrote the initials "F. S." (for scalp). About the same time Mr. Tate supplied him with a lotion for sprains, and this went into an identical bottle, labeled "F. S." (for sprains).

Uncle Cyrus was sparing of his scalp invigorator, and as he occupied himself he had no occasion to open either bottle until a week or so ago. His hair then began to fall slightly, and he decided that the time had come to apply the famous remedy. When he took the vials from the closet he saw on the cork of one the letters "F. S." and rubbed in half an ounce of the fluid.

His scalp didn't feel just right. It itched. Then it burned. Finally it itched. This was too much for Uncle Cyrus, and he stuck his head in a pail of cold water to cool it off. When he had been somewhat relieved he looked in a glass and nearly fainted on seeing that his hair had turned a bright pink.

"And you compare the genius of Rockefeller to that of Shakespeare?"
